Science Students Visit OU Station

Southern Biologists recently enjoyed a very exciting week with the press courtesy of the University of Oklahoma.

The week was the university's Biological Station, which is located in the town of Kingston. The station is a cooperative venture between the Fish and Game department of the Oklahoma State of Oklahoma. It has a complete laboratory and museum room, research room, kitchen, dining, swimming, and individual "hut-ments" for students and their families.

Paradises to be studied by the group was taken from fish and game department officials when the procedure was to pull out nets and catch some of the local species. It was a big chase on, when the rabbits were in the den with ears. Dari Cudby was able to net some specimens for his biology class. He was also provided a lesson in the best way to treat wild animal specimens when they were being discussed. The group was more than happy to help promote the park's and the station's academic and recreational facilities.

At the afternoon meeting, Dr. Dari Cudby brought another field. His solution was the topic of a new study on the effects of erosion on the local flora and fauna. His study was based on several years' worth of research and data collected from the field. The group was impressed with his findings and discussed the potential implications of his work on local ecosystems.

"Science students visiting OU Station" was the theme of the day. The students were taken through the station's facilities and given a tour of the research areas. They were able to observe and learn about the various species of wildlife that are studied at the station. The students were also provided with an opportunity to ask questions and engage in discussions with the station's staff.

The students were given a chance to interact with the local community and learn about the importance of the station's work in preserving the environment. The day was a success, and the students left with a greater understanding of the role that science plays in our world.
Don't Put It Off

Putting off till tomorrow is a good old American custom, of course—but it can cause a lot of trouble. Remember that you can't stop being a student ever long enough to have time to run away from the college. And don't be afraid of the telephone. What we're leading up to is this; it's time NOW for you to buy your yearbooks. Those of you who are putting off buying a yearbook are causing the staff a lot of worry. It will be necessary—and very soon—for the editor to report the number of books needed. He can't do this until you buy your books.

We feel sure that most of you do intend to buy yearbooks—why not make a special effort to do it NOW?

Whose Fault Is It?

"Such a dull week-end!" "Guess I'll go home, there's nothing to do," "Nothing ever happens anymore!"

Do you ever hear these remarks—or make them yourself?

Students seem to forget sometimes that they are the college. If things don't happen, if there are too few interesting parties—which fault is it? It is most likely the fault of the students themselves who do not take the trouble to plan and promote interesting entertainment.

The student council does a good job of sponsoring student activities—but the student council cannot do it alone. A college's recreation program needs help and cooperation from the whole student body.

The next time things get dull and you start to complain, why don't you ask yourself instead, "What can I do to get something started?"

COMMENTS

Writing about "campus intellects," a Michigan State News column editor declared: "The majority of student intellectuals are wearing glasses, long hair, and definitely hold long-term opinions of their long narrow fingers. Many of them feel that, being philosophers, they should smoke nothing but pipe, and are rarely seen without that no-smoking symbol of the campus."

Editor's Note: With a cigarette in one hand and a pipe in the other, how dull do they put on their role as "philosophers."
Roving Reporter

Why are you going to college? You may think this sounds like a pretty simple and silly question—well, maybe it is to some people. But some of the reporters asking this question for this edition found some trouble getting the students to give a direct answer without hemming and hawing around.

Why are you going to college?

Here are some of the students' answers to this week's poll question: "Why are you going to college?"

Bell Dupree—The degree is valuable.

Ann Simpson—To get an education and enjoy myself.

Janet Wonderly—To better my situation in life.

Garnet Moore—To get a little book LARNS.

Darlene Anderson—To stop listening to Bob Taylor's corny jokes.

Joe Singletary—To start my own army and out of work.

Ann Marrey—To get an education and enjoy social life.

Prairie Education—REAL!

Lucy Truly—To learn something and be near BOYS.

Lily Gentle—as a way to pass the time.

Then I had two years so why quit?

Clem Evans—Because I didn't have anything and just didn't want to stay at home.

Pete Easby—My Mother was here and so were 450 girls.

Don Toomorrow—Get my degree and be able to coach.

Tommy Leggett—Play football for the money.

Betty Ann Bass—I didn't know what to do, so Mother and me had to get MARRIED.

Morris Lewis—to lean that I was an "ed" girl and learn geography.

Patsy Crisp—I guess I didn't have anything else to do and I was so good at something.

Cecl Bishins—I'm just not into it.

Fredda Neill—To keep from having to work and there's nothing else to do.

Julia Drum—Camps. If they don't pay, I can do another reason. I know I need it to compete in life's society any better here.

Buster Wantee—I don't have any reason.

Hector Espinosa—I like to study, I know by coming to college I could prepare myself for my future life.

Mrs. Lula Bolin—The main reason is I wanted to finish my degree and I just love school.

Helen Young—I want to be here.

Mrs. Clara Harrington—So I might be a better parent and maybe better prepare myself for the future.

Kenneth Anderson—I could give you million for not being here.

Don't know what they mean by getting an education so I can make something out of myself.

Sue Hopper—It wouldn't do for me to get down in school I'm going for.

Billy Redick—I just don't know what I'm going here, so I'm not going.

Louise Green-Nothing, no comment.

Fraternities, Sororities Plan Christmas Formal

The four social fraternities and sororities on the campus will put on one big Christmas dance.

The night for the dance will be Saturday, December 13. Mr. Clinton花瓣's orchestra will furnish music for the occasion. This orchestra, which played for the Christmas dance last year, is from Sherman, Texas.

Officers of the fraternities and sororities expect to have a better dance by combining the efforts of the four organizations.

A committee made up of members from each of the groups will be in charge of decorations for the dance.

This is the first time all four organizations have gotten together for this kind of event. Several of the groups have combined for dances in the past.

Dolores Hendricks
To Wed December 7

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Hendricks of Deniz, have announced the engagement of their daughter, Dolores Hendricks to Mr. Mc- Donald, Dallas, Texas.

Miss Hendricks graduated from Sharan high school in 1949. She attended Sherman State college for one year and was chosen one of the college basketball queens.

Mr. McDonald, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Fred McDonald of Fort Worth, is employed with the W. G. Davison construction company, Dallas.

Howard Wedding
Takes Place Soon

Mr. and Mrs. J. W. McDonald, Sr., North 8th avenue, announce the engagement and approaching marriage of their daughter, Marlene Howard, to Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Howard, Ft. Worth, Texas.

Miss Herrera is a graduate of Bryan high school and attended Sherman State college. She is a member of Phi Kappa Sigma, social fraternity.

Mr. Howard is a graduate of College Station, Texas, and is employed by the Phillips Petroleum Company at Arlington, Virginia.

Jo Ann Shoemaker
Weds Otis Parrish

Wedding was announced for Miss Jo Ann Shoemaker and Otis Wayne Parrish, Friday, Thanksgiving Day, November 16 by Rev. C. R. Colton, in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Shoemaker at Deniz.

Mrs. Parrish is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Will Shoemaker of Bennington. She was graduated from Deniz high school. At the time of her wedding she was employed by Republic National Bank in Dallas, Texas.

Mr. Parrish is a graduate of South Carolina College and attended Deniz state college for two years, where he was a member of Sigma Tau Gamma.

The couple will make their home in the Deniz community.

Alpha Sigs Stage Candlelight Rites

The Alpha Sigma Tau sisters of Delta Chi Fraternity have selected the following names for the semi-annual pledge dancing assignment.

After the candlelight ceremony, a short business meeting was conducted by Nita Floe Kennedy, president, and referrals were submitted.

Pledges, listed with their big sister:

HOME ON LEAVE

Ralph Jordan, sophomore of Southeastern and now a member of the 6th division, is home on a thirty-day leave. While a student at the college he was active in Phi Sigma Epsilon social fraternity and pep group.

Cooking to Build a House—Los Carpow Dagnes, Jesse Mills, and Mrs. David Simms seem to be doing all right in their industrial arts class. Today only the day when the industrial arts building was a refuge for males.

College Quartettes Sings December 6

The Southeastern women's quartettes makes its first appearance in the college this term. These quartettes will sing for the Popular Club in the home of Mr. and Mrs. E. F. Roy.

The selection to be presented at this special performance will be an English folk tune, "Maryly Mary" and "Sally Goodin". Members of the quartettes are Pat. Reath, Betty Johnson, Maxine Wash, and Pippin Wood, all from Deniz.

Dance Styles Are Presented by Disc Jockey

At a recent meeting of Dance and a special program, dancing styles differ from those at Southeastern were presented.

Dance taken by Libby Thompson was particularly appreciated. Another dance, which caught the interest of the group, was the Mexican Rose dance performed by mountains of California and Library Thompson. As the dance progressed, a scarf was tied into a box with each step, and the perfectly tied scarf was the winner of the prize being given this year.

Pik Pap Attend First Cage Event

Pik Pap Sigma social security and money for their monthly recreation night. The group placed in first a starring part in their basketball game instead.

A short business meeting was held preceding the game. Christian cards to be sold were distributed among the girls and a burning event, which was held at that time.

In a brief business meeting, the group was informed that they would be put on in a box with each step, and the perfectly tied scarf was the winner of the prize being given this year.

No Dull Moments For Joy Childers
At Ardmore High

Joy Childers, 1951 graduate who is now teaching in Ardmore high school does not have very many dull moments.

She describes an interesting day in the life of Santa, "Dear Santa!"

"Dear Santa:"

"In the South, the opinions of a few of the students on the importance of education were listed. In this not only the opinions of the members of these organizations are reflected, but also the Independents were present. It is the opinion of this writer that the Greek organizations in the South are doing an excellent job of dealing with the problems facing the students at the universities. The students have control of the organization; they will make a majority of the leaders in all fields. The students at the universities have control of the organizations. In writing this letter I am not trying to persuade any one person to join a Greek organization. This is one man's opinion.
